

PORTFOLIO OBJECTIVE

This model comprises Sharia-compliant investment vehicles including unit trusts, mutual funds and exchange traded funds (ETFs), whose managers aim to outperform their respective markets. Asset classes you could find in this portfolio are Sharia equities, Sukuk bonds, Sharia approved commodities and cash.

The portfolio seeks to generate modest returns higher than cash in the bank over the short to medium term (3 - 5 years or more) with potential for consistent though constrained capital growth. Portfolios will typically comprise 10% equity and 90% non-equity, though weightings may deviate within set parameters, allowing managers to react to market conditions.

PORTFOLIO ACTIVITY

It has been a strong period for the Sharia portfolios which have been positioned well to benefit from positive trends in global markets. Therefore, it was a quarter of active management with a focus on downside protection from these levels. Exposure to the HSBC Shariah multi-asset fund was increased as volatility surrounding geopolitical tensions took hold at the start of the quarter. This position has now become a core holding in the non-equity part of the TAM Sharia portfolios. The models continued to benefit from strong exposure to precious metals with profits taken in mid-June after a strong period for the silver fund seen in higher risk portfolios. The iShares MSCI USA Islamic ETF was sold down in favour of the HSBC Global Islamic Equity fund. This provided a small trim of US exposure, as the Global fund still invests here and increased exposure to a fund that we see as offering higher levels of diversification than the iShares ETF.

QUARTERLY REVIEW

Q2 was another strong month for the global equity market, with a 2.66% rally in the global equity index which TAM benchmark against. We remain in a market dominated by AI, and mega-cap US names returning a 4.14% positive return. However, a high proportion of that return is being attributed to a small number of stocks. Specifically, Microsoft, Nvidia, Eli Lilly and Meta make up 55% of the returns from the S&P 500 in the first 6 months of the year, with Nvidia delivering nearly 35% of that gain. This makes it a size and scale within the US market able to move the entire market direction on its own. However, this quarter also saw the UK return strongly from previous lows, led by smaller companies, while Europe looked fairly strong until it suffered amid general election uncertainty in France. On the bond side, it was a negative quarter for the index of corporate and sovereign debt. There were however pockets of stronger performance in emerging market debt and higher yielding bonds. The lion's share of fixed income securities has been held back this year by the increasingly lower expectations of rate cuts in 2024, starting with six quarter point cuts for the US at the start of the year, now down to one or two.

QUARTERLY OUTLOOK

The second half of the year will continue to be dominated by interest rates, elections, and the concentration in US markets of the mega-cap names. Whilst we see support for these stocks remaining, we are conscious that the rally in these names is prone to upsets from missed earnings or guidance downgrades, which could create a more volatile second half of the year for these behemoth stocks. On rate cuts, we see both Europe and the UK cutting again, perhaps in September with a 0.25% reduction in the headline rate. We think the US Federal Reserve will also begin to cut rates in Q4. Having said that, inflation as we know is not linear, and will continue to deliver both negative and positive surprises. This means that we can expect to see further volatility from interest rates and thus markets, which continue to oscillate around the direction of US inflation. Logically, the rate cutting cycle in the US is positive for bonds in both corporate and sovereign markets, but this will likely come under pressure again as Trump potentially takes back the White House and approaches the bond market for unfunded stimulus. We see the UK at a turning point off the back of the Labour landslide and expect to see some longer-term policies for growth being enacted - a step change from a Conservative party which recently largely sat on its hands.
